PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

In the 1994 publication The Alfa Annual - AROC Around the World, former Editor/President George Meikrantz used the word “diversity” to describe the members and vehicles of AROC-WI. As I look over our list of fifty-nine club members, I find that this is still true today. We are a diverse group of auto enthusiasts as interesting as our cars. Most own at least one Alfa but a number of you own several with the number topping out at six. The oldest Alfa in our club is a 1955 Giulietta and the newest is a 2015 4C. With the much-anticipated new Giulia available later this year we hope to have even greater diversity added to our group.

The club has a collection of library materials that are available for your use. I had hoped to present this list last month but found my attention going elsewhere. Thanks for your patience. Please see the updated list in this issue. If you wish to check an item out of the library feel free to contact me. This is but one of the many benefits of club membership. I'm also working on creating a list of my personal library which I will make available when completed.

For anyone thinking about attending ALFA expo17 in Montreal you may wish to sign up sooner rather than later. Some of the events are bound to fill up quickly. Debbie and I are already registered and are very much looking forward to exploring Montreal.

Save the date of March 18 for our Annual Banquet and Business Meeting to be held at the Fox & Hounds in Hubertus. Details will be found in our next issue.

Ciao,
Gary

Date Set for AROC-WI Annual Banquet

This week president Gary Schommer confirmed the date for the club’s annual banquet and business meeting. It will be held Saturday evening, March 18, at the popular Fox and Hounds Restaurant and Tavern, 1298 Freiss Lake Road, Hubertus, Wisconsin.

We’ll be returning once again to the Fox and Hounds, the site of past banquets. Past attendees can attest to the quality of the food and the friendly atmosphere.

Menu and pricing will be announced in the March issue of the Alfanatic, but mark your calendars now.

Alfa News Notes

Wisconsin Still on the Waiting List for New Giulias

While dealers as close as Evanston, Illinois, are delivering Giulia Quadrifoglio to their customers, Wisconsin dealers are still waiting for their allocations.

Last month we heard from Bergstrom in Appleton. They are still waiting for their first cars.

After our publication date, I heard from Frank Chiappetta, New Car Sales Manager at Palmen in Kenosha. They have four cars coming and one has been sold sight-unseen. They are accepting $2,000 deposits for future deliveries which, according to his Facebook post, should be “any day now.” I’ll be staying in touch with Frank.

Finally, Bob Ludwigson talked to Jay Hyatt of International Motors and filed this report:

Our new Alfa Romeo dealer, International Motors located on highway 100 in West Allis, is moving forward with plans to start selling Alfas. In an interview with sales manager, Jay Hyatt I learned that they expect to have a new building completed in March. This building will be the showroom for the Alfa Romeo brand. Jay also told me that they plan to move the Maserati brand to this new building as well.

Jay was aware of the Alfa Romeo Owners Club, but not specifically our chapter. I filled him in on some of our activities such as our ICAMS Show and the fall tour, using articles from our newsletter, and he was impressed. I mentioned that if he was agreeable, we would like to have a show and tell at his dealership, when he has new Giulia cars on the floor. He said he would be happy to do that. He mentioned that the Mercedes and Audi clubs, which are other brands he sells, already hold meetings on his premises.

Sounds like he feels that participation in area car clubs is a good thing, and that sounds pretty good to me. I will keep you informed of developments.

Marchionne: No Alfa, Maserati Spinoff

In his press conference at the North American International Auto Show on January 9, FCA CEO Sergio Marchionne quelled rumors regarding a possible spinoff of Alfa Romeo and Maserati, saying that the brands were essential elements of the Fiat Chrysler organization. He did, however, confirm that it was possible that electronics supplier Magneti Marelli could be sold, saying it was not essential to the company’s brand identity. FCA has been in talks with Samsung regarding the sale.

Giulia Wagon Doubtful

When quizzed about the possibility of bringing a Giulia station wagon to the market, Marchionne stated he was doubtful that the model would get production approval. The company is putting emphasis on the development of SUVs. Wagons are popular in Europe, especially Italy and Germany, but not so much elsewhere. SUVs, on the other hand, are seen as essential for achieving good sales results in the U.S. and China. The Stelvio will go into production at the Cassino by the end of January and is scheduled for its European debut this spring in Geneva. The promised large Alfa SUV is slated to be produced alongside the recently introduced Maserati Levante at the Mirafiori plant, probably as a 2018 model.

Stelvio “First Edition” to Debut in Europe in April or May

According to blastingnews.com, the new Stelvio SUV will be released in April or May of this year in a “First Edition” model with the 280 hp turbo four, all-wheel drive, and 20 inch wheels. Many predicted that an all-out Quadrifoglio version would come first, but that doesn’t seem to be the case. The First Edition, despite lacking the fire-breathing V-6, will come with a full complement of safety, appearance, comfort, and convenience goodies. Release timing for additional Stelvio models is not yet known.

Next-Gen Jeep Grand Cherokee will ride on Giorgio Platform

According to themotorreport.com, the next generation of the popular Grand Cherokee will ride on a variant of the Giorgio platform developed for use on the Alfa Romeo Giulia and Stelvio. In his round of interviews at the recent Detroit International Auto Show, Sergio Marchionne discussed replacing the current Mercedes-based platform with the Giorgio modular platform, which will be stretched and raised to underpin the forthcoming Jeep. It is expected that the new Jeep will remain true to its roots, offering full 4x4 off-road capability.

Another Italian Alfa Romeo Museum

Consider visiting the Museo Fratelli Cozzi Alfa Romeo on your next pilgrimage to Italy. The Museum, in Legnano, just marked its first anniversary in December. It houses a collection of over 55 Alfas from the fifties through the nineties, along with an extensive library and memorabilia collection.

It is the creation of 80-year-old Pietro Cozzi, partner for over 60 years in the local Alfa Romeo dealership Cozzi Fratelli.

Cozzi has been collecting Alfas for as long as he's been selling them and decided to open the museum to display his collection. His children are involved in running and promoting the museum which is housed in the lower level of the dealership. In addition to welcoming touring Alfisti, the museum is involved in educational outreach with the schools of the region as well as the hosting of industrial and business events throughout the year.

The cars represent the personal collecting preferences of Pietro Cozzi and, while the collection doesn't have the depth and breadth of Alfa's own Museo, it does present a satisfying cross-section of Alfa's post-WWII efforts. If you're in the Milan area, it would certainly be worth a visit.

Event Briefs

Man Cave Visit

Roy Ferrari reports that he has arranged for the club to visit John Splude's "Man Cave" on Saturday, April 22. John, a retired business executive, operates JWS Classics in Greendale, where he deals in #1 condition muscle cars of the sixties with a few "foreign" cars offered from time to time. Details on the visit will be forthcoming.

Preparations Underway for New Glarus Event

Tom Schmock reports that permits have been submitted for the annual AROC New Glarus Hill Climb, Das Kurze Klausenrennen, Saturday, May 6. A block of rooms has been set aside at the Chalet Landhaus and ready for early-bird reservations. The banquet menu has been set and will offer your choice of Three Filet Patron, Chicken Pasta, or Potato Crusted Wall-eye. Some additional paving has been done on Kubly Road, which should improve this year's event.

Alfa and VSC club members and past participants will be receiving their invitations by mail. Interested non-members with qualifying cars (basically four, eight, or straight-six cylinder Alfas, pre-WWII cars; and others at the discretion of the organizers) can contact registrar Jim Fuchs at 414-333-8808, or jim-fuchs447@ymail.com for an invitation.

Mother, May I?

John Ehle reports that his popular low key southeastern Wisconsin driving event will be held again this year on Saturday, May 13. Plans are still in progress and you can expect to hear more about the tour in the coming months.

Ephraim Hill Climb and Concours Ready for Year Three

John Baker Welch reports that plans are in place for the September 8, 9, and 10, 2017 event in Door County. Hagerty will sponsor the Hill Climb and Arbor Crowne Properties the Concours. Details will appear in future editions of the Alfanatic.

Fiat FreakOut in Town July 19-23

Our Friends in the Cream City 500 Club are busy firming up plans for the upcoming 2017 Fiat FreakOut. A schedule of activities can be found on the Fiat Club of America's web pages, here.

The club is in need of volunteers to help manage the activities. If car events are your thing and you want to get involved, contact Bryan Reiners reinersbryan@att.net or Sean Kane kanesean@outlook.com.

2-Seater Events

This mostly Madison-based group of sportscar enthusiasts has announced an extensive list of weekend driving and social events for 2017. To get in on the fun, email David Fisher and ask to be put on the list. fisher@davidfisher.com.

Car Guy Italia

Roy Ferrari wanted to remind us of the popular annual pilgrimages organized by Frank Mandarano. Frank has been organizing these insider tours of the world of Italian autos since 1998. This year there are two tours scheduled. The first, September 2-13, features the Italian Grand Prix at Monza. The second, September 17-28, includes visits to a number of shops and carrozzerias. Book soon. <http://www.carguytour.com/>

Alfas at Auction – January

By Bob Abhalter

In January, the auction world looks to Scottsdale, Arizona, and vicinity, the first of the major multiple-auction weeks of the collector-car year. The forty-plus year old Barrett-Jackson auction, running from January 14 to 22 this year, is the largest and best known, but all the major U.S. players, save Mecum, were represented during the third week of January. Cars for every taste and pocketbook are rolled out to a waiting international audience. (RM-Sotheby's claimed bidders from 30 countries.) According to Hagerty.com, total receipts were $259.8 million, the second-highest total since the auctions began. In all, 2,900 cars of the 3,486 offered by the 7 auction companies were sold. Alfas were available at four of the seven venues. Even Barret-Jackson, which offered only one Alfa last year, had three on offer out of their 1,700 consignments.

The most significant Alfas offered were two 6C1750 Spiders, one consigned to Bonhams and one to Gooding & Company.

Bonhams offered a 1931 6C1750 Gran Sport Spider Zagato with its original body, engine, and driveshaft still intact. The fifth-series red on red Spider claimed a known ownership since being sold new in Switzerland. It had seven owners since then, including a 40-year residence in the collection of a noted U.S. enthusiast. Its history included Swiss racing in-period, a restoration in the '80s, and 13 years of sporting use in England. Originally painted pale blue, it now sports a traditional red livery. Although it was reupholstered during its restoration, some of the original upholstery pieces came with the car. This gem sold for $2,805,000, the 4th highest sale for Bonhams in Scottsdale this year.

Bonhams 6C1750 Gran Sport Zagato

The Gooding and Company consignment was a 1932 6C1750 Series V Grand Sport Roadster bodied in France by Figoni. This car was first bodied and delivered in France by the local distributor, explaining the unique badging reading “Alfa Romeo - Paris,” and the designation as a “Grand” Sport rather than the Italian “Gran” Sport. The Spider is done up in white, with black fenders and a burgundy leather interior and wood dash. It had nine owners in its lifetime and was last restored in 2015. While most certainly a handsome car, in my opinion the design isn’t as successful as Zagato’s. The Gooding bidders, however, thought it was pretty nice. It sold for $1,595,000, the fourth-highest 2017 result for Gooding. The price was healthy for a street-equipped 6C but well below the auction house’s low estimate.

Gooding also offered a 1954 1900 SS Coupe with Touring bodywork. The 1900 was finished in its original silk green with beige leather. The five-window coupe was first delivered to San Francisco and has had five owners since. In 1977 it was restored in Canada. The SS was shown without its bumpers but they were included in the sale. The hammer price was $357,500, some $75,000 below the auction house’s low estimate.

Giuliettas and Giulias were in relative abundance in Scottsdale this year. Some produced impressive results.

Barrett-Jackson offered a 1959 Giulietta Spider Veloce in black with red leather seating. A “ground up” restoration including carpeting and a new top was claimed. The major mechanical pieces were rebuilt and new rubber, seals, and tires were fitted. The car looked fresh enough in the paltry four pictures provided in the online catalog. It might have been sitting a little tall and the tires still had their stickers on the tread, so the new owner might have a little fettling to do when he gets it home. The $77,000 hammer price might have been a bargain relative to the prices achieved by other similar Spiders over the week. Another very similar black 1960 Giulietta Spider Veloce, staged about six cars later in the docket, was withdrawn before crossing the block. Perhaps the consigner saw the results for the '59 and decided not to risk it.

'63 Spider, ready for off-roading

The other Barrett-Jackson "Giulietta" was actually a red over black 1963 Giulia Spider. According to the description it was restored two years ago. Apparently the restorer must have been planning to do some off-roading, as the pictures seemed to show the car sitting way high on some pretty tall springs. The car looked clean and the bodywork straight but several details were incorrect or missing. It sold for $44,000, leaving its new owner enough in the budget to correct the ride height and the most glaring other deficiencies.

Moving upscale, another Giulietta Spider Veloce, this one a Gray 1958 model with red upholstery, sold at the Bonhams January 19 sale. This handsome car was claimed to have been found in 2000 with 60,000 miles on the odometer and treated to a two-year no-expense-spared restoration. It has covered 300 miles since. It sold for a very strong $176,000, well over the auction house's high estimate. The catalog description of this car raised some questions among Giulietta specialists, namely the claim of engine work raising the displacement to 1,499 cc and the addition of a fifth gear to the original transmission. According to club technical advisor Tom Sahines, posting in Facebook, the displacement expansion is possible but block machining is required. The fifth gear addition is problematic, as the pictures show the gearshift lever from a 101-series car. This setup would not qualify as "original." There were a few missing clamps and incorrect details to quibble over but the big question was why one would want to hot-rod a desirable collector car.

The Bonhams car wasn't the only Giulietta to get the "big bore" treatment. Gooding sold a beautiful 1962 Giulietta Sprint Speciale on January 21. The silver car sported gray upholstery and underwent a European restoration in 2008-2009. The coupe was claimed to have covered only 42,000 km prior to restoration and to have only break-in miles on the rebuilt motor which had been pumped up from the original 1300 cc to 1430 cc. The SS sold for $154,000, a fair price that just met the auction house's low estimate.

The final Giulietta offered was RM Sotheby's sole Alfa Romeo consignment, a red 1962 Giulietta Sprint Zagato Series II Coda Tronca. Originally delivered to Italy, the car has passed through a number of hands in the U.S. and Japan. At some point in its life it received a restoration, and the windshield was apparently replaced when the car resided in Japan. The car was claimed to have authentic Zagato body number stampings. The SZ is now powered by a 1750cc engine that had its block restamped with a serial number appropriate to the car's type. It was sold with an unrestored 1300cc Type 750 Veloce engine thought to be original to the car. This driving- and events-worthy SZ was sold for $379,500, a little shy of the auction house’s low estimate of $400,000.

Moving on to newer cars, Bonhams offered a 1974 GTV 2000 in blue with tan upholstery. The coupe was said to be a European-delivery car, however some of the details seen in the pictures brought that description into question. The Tipo Plate read 105.01, the U.S. model designation, and the sill showed a U.S.-style emissions certification plate. However, the car was fitted with Dellorto carbs and carried a kilometer-calibrated speedometer with gauges labeled in Italian. A late-production car, it was titled with a 1975 registration.

The pictures showed a shiny car, with some questionable panel fit and a very clean undercarriage. The GTV was said to be in stock trim with factory-installed air conditioning. A Nardi steering wheel had been added and the restoration was incorrect in a few details—wrong badges, missing bumper overrides, etc.—and someone had placed way too many Bertone badges and other decals in all the wrong places, a defect easily corrected as long as there were no extra holes drilled. The “original” tool kit was indeed original, just not to this car. I had one just like it in my Milano and can testify that the fuses shown in the kit won’t fit anywhere in a stock GTV. The most exciting thing about this GTV was the $83,600 sales price. Well sold, indeed.

Finally, Barrett-Jackson offered the newest Alfa on the consignment lots, a 1978 Spider Veloce in red with red-painted fiberglass bumpers that didn’t seem to fit too well. This was an almost-boy-racer (missing a roll bar) redo of the venerable square-tail model. The a/c had been removed, along with the SPICA injection, and Webers were fitted to the original manifold. Engine performance mods were claimed, along with a custom exhaust. The package was rounded out with aftermarket wheels, racing seats, and five-point harnesses. For his $12,100, the new owner bought all the inconveniences of a race car but, without a roll bar, only limited competition potential.

While most pre-war Alfas have always been blue-chip collectibles, it’s clear that the cars of the fifties and sixties are starting to get more recognition. There is continuing, perhaps growing, interest in the early Giuliettas and it is now common to see good GTVs selling in the $40,000-50,000 range. And if the Scottsdale results are any indicator, today’s buyers don’t seem to be sticklers for originality. 🍀

Parts

Weber 32/36 DGV carb, and air cleaner housing and intake manifold (restored and painted) for 1300cc normale (750-101), all in excellent working condition. Best offer. Jon Block, \(248\) 505-0606505-0606) cell, or jblock8586@wowway.com

2001 Alfa 156 V6 2.5, 6-speed manual. Red with black leather interior. Car is in very good condition and can be driven right away.

Total mileage is about 150,000 miles. Water pump and all pulleys and belts replaced at 120,000 miles. Suspension, radiator and clutch replaced at 135,000 miles. Runs great! Extra sets of wheels with snow tires and performance tires.

The only problem with the car is a very slow leak in the power steering fluid and an occasional glitch in the immobilizer. The immobilizer reads the key code. It can go months without a problem. When it doesn't unlock, a few tries usually does it. Or there is a work around bypass procedure that will get you home. A $50 part may fix it for good. The gear shift also doesn't easily return to center with the sideways spring. You have to move it a bit between second and third.

Car sounds great, feels great and is a real head turner. $7,000 or best offer. Russ Whitford veloce192@sbcglobal.net

Four Used Cromodora Wheels for 72-74 Alfa Spider. Surface and finish would benefit from some reconditioning but otherwise ready for that rally! If desired, and strictly at my cost—no adder—I would be willing to get them E-Coated ready for paint refinishing. Make me an offer!

Also, Rear Bumper for 1972-74 Spider. Make an offer.
